Dear Sir:

The Independent Canal and Reservoir Company's representative on the canal has just written to us stating that the water is dropping rapidly and that the crops are in need of water and urges the importance of a commissioner being appointed to get on to the ground at once and measure the water before it is turned out and again after it is turned out, and then check the matter over closely in the light of our past experience.

He suggests the advisability of sending a man down from here, if you have one available, unless Mr. Chris Nelson, whose name has been heretofore proposed can be appointed. It has also been suggested that probably an arrangement for the appointment of Mr. Deland Kimball, temporarily, could be made.

We have talked with Mr. Oxley at your office today, and will appreciate advice from you as to what can be done to meet the emergency situation as soon as your convenience will permit you to take the matter up, upon your return.

Very truly yours,

IRVINE, SKEEN & THURMAN
